Dr. Richard Nagelberg has been practicing general dentistry in suburban Philadelphia for over 28 years. He has international practice experience, having provided dental service in Thailand, Cambodia and Canada. Richard has served on many boards and advisory panels and is a consultant, key opinion leader and scientific advisory board member with several companies and organizations. His column, "GP Perio-The Oral-Systemic Connection", appears monthly in Dental Economics magazine. Dr. Nagelberg was selected as a Top Clinician in Continuing Education by Dentistry Today magazine for 2009, 2010 and 2011. A respected member of the dental community, Richard lectures extensively on a variety of topics centered on understanding the impact dental professionals have beyond the oral cavity.

Mark N. Hochman, DDS

Dr. Hochman, received his dental degree from the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Following graduation, he joined the Nassau County Medical Center as a general practice dental resident and was ultimately appointed chief of the residency program. Dr. Hochman obtained his specialty certificate in periodontics at the New York University College of Dentistry (NYUCD). He received advanced training in implant dentistry at the Harvard School of Dental Medicine and a postdoctoral degree in orthodontics from NYUCD. He is one of the very few practitioners in the U.S. to hold specialty certificates in both orthodontics and periodontics. He is also the inventor of an advanced computer-controlled local anesthetic delivery system and is currently the director of clinical affairs and a consultant for a medical technology company. His research has been published in numerous journals and he has written articles on several topics, including utilizing implants for orthodontic anchorage and pain-free local anesthesia.

Michelle Hurlbutt, RDH, MSDH

Michelle's career has included private practice, public health, corporate, continuing education, consulting, writing and dental hygiene education. A graduate of the University of Nebraska, with a BS in Dental Hygiene, Michelle is currently a Master's of Dental Hygiene student at the University of Missouri, Kansas City. She plans her research to be on the perceptions, attitudes and knowledge of dental professionals on herbal medicine, a topic she lectures on nationally.

Michelle currently practices clinical dental hygiene weekly in a high-tech cosmetic dental practice, where she has worked with a cosmetic physician who performed various skin enhancing procedures. She has been a dental hygiene educator for over five years. Currently, Michelle is a part time faculty member with the Riverside Community College Dental Hygiene Department, teaching radiology and radiographic interpretation to both dental hygiene and dental assisting students. She also teaches advanced topics, nutrition, preventive dentistry and pharmacology to dental hygiene students. Michelle is an Assistant Professor with Loma Linda University, Department of Dental Hygiene, teaching nutrition, pharmacology and clinical dental hygiene. In the fall, Michelle will be part of a new BSDH-degree completion program at Loma Linda University, teaching research methodology, advanced clinical concepts and advanced topics in education.
